Named because it's halfway between Alexandria and Winchester, Middleburg was founded in 1787. With a population of approximately 600, the town is well known in the horse community.